

Questions for IT Leaders to Ask When Selecting a Modern Technology System

Moving to the cloud might seem like the “it” thing to do. But what good is having a cloud-first approach if you haven’t developed a complete strategy? Here are the top 4 questions Tambellini analysts say you should answer when you are evaluating and selecting a modern technology system.

 What problem are we trying to solve and what is the most reasonable way to solve it?

 Are our systems up to date, and are we releasing enhancements for features and functionality as they are available?

 Do we have a comprehensive data management strategy that has been socialized across the campus?

 What are the outcomes that we want to see from a move to the cloud?

- Technology
- Human Capital
- Functional